FREE GRANTS.
Whilst nearly all the other colonies of the Crown are unceasing in their efforts to attract population to their shores, and have systematically set themselves to work to effect this object, we seem to take the matter as coolly as if it were a thing of the most perfect indifference to us whether these colonies were ever filled up. Canada, Australia, and New Zealand, all are much more easy of access to the intending emigrant from Europe than we as yet are;—not perhaps geographically, as respects the latter colonies, but from the facilities afforded by well established passenger lines between them and the old country. These dependencies are not content, however, to trust to these facilities alone for obtaining their share of the European emigration. Something more than that they consider is required of them. New Zealand we find making a grant to pay the expenses of poor persons desirous of coming to their country; and Canada, sending her agent to Liverpool, the great port of embarkation, so as to be able to lay before intending emigrants her claims for settlers, distributing among them pamphlets and maps descriptive of the country, and affording to the old country-man just the information he is in need of. If he is possessed of money, and wishes to become the owner of improved land, he soon finds out in what part of the Province the best is to be had. Should his means be so limited, as to compel him to take up wild land, or should he wish to avail himself of the system of free grants on the colonization route, he is immediately put in the way of satisfying his wish. Every pains is taken to make his voyage and settlement in the Province as direct and free from difficulties as possible. Now if all this trouble is taken to procure immigration by colonies well-known to the public at home, is it not necessary that we who are so remote, and we might almost say so inaccessible, should in some measure follow their example?

We have an immense territory, with boundless resources of every kind, but it will long be in fallow, unless it is somewhat more rapidly populated. This population we must have. We must make known to intending emigrants what kind of country there is awaiting for them. For this purpose a hand book should be compiled in the colonies showing what lands we have for settlement, their quality, their extent, their location, the terms upon which they may be taken up, the climate as compared with that of other colonies, the peculiar advantages derived from settlement here, arising out of our great mineral resources, and the conformation of the country. We should also have some energetic agent at home who could see that this correct information was diffused among the masses, and false ideas regarding the country thereby dispelled. One individual could act in this capacity for both colonies—for the interests of both are identical—and a considerable saving in expense might thus be effected. But beyond this step we think the Government should offer some sort of bounty to emigrants settling up new districts, in the shape of free grants. There are thousands upon thousands of acres along the Similkameen valley, on the Thompson, in the Williams Lake District, and in all likelihood on the plateau west of the Fraser, which could be laid out to settlements, with a certain proportion of free lots, for those willing to engage in the bona fide occupation of them.

Latest from Stekin.

Mr. Henry Harvey, of the firm of Harvey Bros. of this city, who arrived yesterday by the Russian corvette, Rynda, has favored us with the following items of intelligence from Stekin:

Mr. Harvey passed the winter at Shakesville, and left it for the month of the River on the 10th May. The river was open on the 1st May. All the miners who had been wintering about the mouth, had previously sledged up on the ice.

There was a sufficient quantity of provisions in the hands of the miners to last them through the summer, but the supply in the hands of storekeepers at Shakesville was small.

The ground was still frozen when Mr. Harvey left, and miners consequently were unable to prospect or work.

By last accounts two parties had started for the Blue Range and head waters of the river. One party under Buck Choquette, according to Indian accounts, had gone to Tako River, north of the Cañon, and another to Tako River, intended building a boat at the head of the Cañon to follow the waters as far as they could.

Great confidence was entertained in the result of the prospecting on the Blue Range, and the general belief that rich diggings would be struck.

In the Cañon last season no great results were obtained. One party made $90 in the week. The best wages obtained were from $10 to $15.

Miners were sufficiently satisfied, however, of the prospects the country afforded them to remain and try their fortunes. None had left except those who were compelled to do so from sickness and other causes. The first during the winter had been severe, and scurvy had been very prevalent—seven men had fallen victims to the latter complaint, and one had died from the effects of being frost-bitten. Their names are as follows:—Alfred Grant, aged 18, from Canada; a West; Robert Shanley, an American; Jacob Fleiger, a German; James Whitlow, a blacksmith of Victoria; a man known by the name of Charles ("Split-Lip") Brown; Wm. Jones, a colored man, formerly being a soldier in the army; and a Portuguese whose name was not known.

Mr. Henry Boyce, a married man, from Newmarket, England, died while suffering from frost-bite. It was thought, however, that Mr. Boyce had died from the effects of fretting for his wife and family in England, the separation from whom he keenly felt, and allowed the isolated nature of his position to prey upon his mind.

During the winter a fall was discovered in the Cañon about 40 miles up. An immense body of water falls a distance of 60 feet from a gorge of only 6½ feet wide.

A canoe laden with provisions came up the river as late as December 4th. They had started in the month of June, and had been driven off by the ice, and had been driven off by the ice, and had been driven off by the ice.

The weather during November was open. During the month the Indians were peaceable, and kindly disposed. He came down the river in a canoe with some Indians and arrived at the mouth on the 12th May, six hours after the Labouchere had left. He had then been here for more than four months, and had been here for more than four months, and had been here for more than four months.

Mr. Harvey saw His Excellency, who conversed in very good English, and was extremely kind in receiving his directions, and supply of provisions, and also wine and cigars.

Mr. Graham had gone up with his stores. There were no provisions at the mouth, and considerable surprise was expressed that none had arrived from the river.

The Naimino Packet was there trading with the Indians. Two boats from the Rynda went up the river surveying; one of them got up a distance of 48 miles, and then a man, who was drowned while towing the boat.

It is rumored that the Russian Government contemplate building a fort at the entrance of the river.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

From Mr. Fuller, who wintered at Fildale's Bay, we learn that the winter had been very severe, the mercury generally froze in the ball every full moon. In February it remained so for 9 days. Snow fell over 14 feet during the winter, it lay from 6 to 7 feet level, and the ground was so covered that ground was still frozen and the lands were unable to work. The river broke up on the end of April and the water rose and covered the bars. There were 80 men wintered on the river, eight of whom died, and seven on the bars. The river broke up on the 1st of August and September. As high as $50 to the hand was made in 10 hours work on Carpenter's bar.

There was $5 on both bars, and the average wages made was $10.

THE QUEEN'S ACCESSION.—Saturday being the anniversary of the Accession of Queen Victoria to the Throne of Great Britain, was observed as a holiday in the public offices. A number of townpeople were attracted to Esquimaux to witness the celebration of the event by the Naval squadron at anchor there. Each of the ships was gaily dressed with flags of every variety, and shortly before twelve o'clock the men were seen flocking up the rigging like so many monkeys, and the following day they had spread themselves out on the yards where they stood in rows as regular and firm as any picket fence. Precisely at noon, the flag ship Surlei led the first gun of the Royal fleet, and the following day they had spread themselves out on the yards where they stood in rows as regular and firm as any picket fence. Precisely at noon, the flag ship Surlei led the first gun of the Royal fleet, and the following day they had spread themselves out on the yards where they stood in rows as regular and firm as any picket fence.

ARRIVAL OF A RUSSIAN CORVETTE.—His Imperial Russian Majesty's corvette Rynda, 11 guns, Capt. Bisargin, from Hakodadi, Japan, April 27th, Sitka, 8th June, calling at Stekin, entered Esquimaux Harbor yesterday afternoon, and saluted the Admiral's flag, which compliment was returned by the Surlei. The Rynda brought seven passengers from Stekin, mostly returned miners who speak in the highest terms of the kind of country they had found. The Rynda, which was the highest terms of the kind of country they had found. The Rynda, which was the highest terms of the kind of country they had found.

TELL IT NOT IN GATH.—An advertisement appears in the British Columbian, which is evidently intended to strike terror to the souls of the prominent members of our Community. Beware ye, the Aristocracy of Vancouver, for there is in preparation, and shortly to be issued from the Press of British Columbia, a deadly Upas tree in the form of a Pamphlet, price One Shilling, containing narratives of the pedigrees of all your most distinguished families.

FAREWELL COLATIONS.—His worship the Mayor, invite Commodore Spencer and the Officers of H. M. S. Topaze to a collation at his residence yesterday. The affair passed off most agreeably. Admiral Kingcome was also a guest.

The Assizes will be resumed this morning at 10 o'clock.

Arrival of the Sierra Nevada!

Monday Morning, June 22, 1863.

Wicksburg Not Taken!

Confederates Advancing towards Philadelphia.

Tremendous Excitement in the Northern States.

Stores Closed in Philadelphia.

By the arrival of the Sierra Nevada from San Francisco, at 11 o'clock last night, we have dates from the seat of war to the 16th, and from San Francisco to the 17th. Below will be found a summary of the most important news:

NEW YORK, June 4.—A courier of the 4th reports that Kirby Smith crossed to Port Hudson on Sunday. The Federal gunboats, after a short shelling, sinking one steamer. No doubt it entertained a regard to the result either at that place or at Vicksburg.

CHARLOTTE, June 4.—An official despatch from Gen. Walker, at Pontalisco, reports that the enemy fired the town of Rufftown to-day. The forces engaged them, and presently Mr. Boyce, a married man, from Newmarket, England, died while suffering from frost-bite. It was thought, however, that Mr. Boyce had died from the effects of fretting for his wife and family in England, the separation from whom he keenly felt, and allowed the isolated nature of his position to prey upon his mind.

CINCINNATI, June 3.—A Memphis letter of the 31st states that Gen. Osterhaus was on the 21st inst. at Memphis, and that he had been driving Pagan's command before us since 8 a. m., skirmishing for a distance of 3 miles, and capturing 33 men, and 1000 negroes and destroyed about $1,000,000 of property.

An editorial in the Richmond Whig characterizes the news from the South and West as most cheering, and says that from all accounts the defense of Vicksburg by Pemberton is most glorious—an episode in the already crowded annals of our military history. Some persons, however, regard the recent fight at Port Hudson as a rebel victory.

NEW YORK, June 8.—At a meeting of editors the right of the press to criticize was upheld unanimously.

CINCINNATI, June 3.—A Memphis letter of the 31st states that Gen. Osterhaus was on the 21st inst. at Memphis, and that he had been driving Pagan's command before us since 8 a. m., skirmishing for a distance of 3 miles, and capturing 33 men, and 1000 negroes and destroyed about $1,000,000 of property.

Communication with Gen. Banks is kept up by the Louisiana shore. Guerrillas infest the region between Lake Pontchartrain and the Gulf of Mexico. Government plantations are selected by them for attack, and hundreds of negroes have been driven off or hung. Those found with Federal uniforms are mercilessly suspended to the nearest tree.

NEW YORK, June 6th, says reliable information from Knoxville places the number of rebel troops there at 12,000. The reports all agree that Gen. Tracy holds Cumberland Gap with 2,000 men.

The rebels say that 10,000 men have been withdrawn from Bragg to reinforce Johnson, and that they are now at 15,000 men.

NASVING, June 8.—Our lines in the recent engagement at Franklin was 50 killed, wounded and missing. The rebel loss is said to be double that number. Our forces pursued the retreating rebels to Spring Hill. It is reported to-day that they have evacuated their position.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—John Ross, chief of the Cherokee Nation, writes to the Indian Bureau that a special Cherokee Council held at Cowpens, Georgia, decreed a severance of all connection with the rebels, and the abolition of the position of raising a division of 100,000 colored soldiers, reported that the President fully approves of the proposition, declaring himself ready, as soon as a sufficient number could be raised, to make a division of a command for Gen. Fremont.

It should be deemed expedient, he would create a department, so as to enable him to carry out his combination of white and black regiments. A series of public meetings in the Southern States are to be held to imitate the measures.

MEMPHIS, June 11.—The Chattanooga Rebel, of the 4th, in an article on the situation, declares that Breckinridge's corps has returned to Bragg; and that Johnson was so sure in his position that he needed no aid.

NEW YORK, June 9.—Port Hudson adjoined state that Col. Clark and Payne, reported killed, were not in the least injured. Col. Dean of the 4th Wisconsin and Capt. Worthless of Weitzel's staff were killed. Dean's regiment lost 70 killed and wounded, out of 300 in the fort.

NEW YORK, June 9.—The Times' report of the Port Hudson affair says that the 1st Louisiana Colored regiment showed great pluck on the 27th, marching up to the guns within 80 paces at double quick. They were supported by the 2nd Louisiana, and the 3rd Louisiana, and the 4th Louisiana, and the 5th Louisiana, and the 6th Louisiana, and the 7th Louisiana, and the 8th Louisiana, and the 9th
